Introduction

WOMAN: What can we do? Can we stop this man?

FUERST: Perhaps we can. But first we must find a hero – a Swiss hero!

It is a bad time for Switzerland in the early 1300s. Swiss people are unhappy because their country has an Austrian emperor. There are a lot of new taxes, and there are Austrian soldiers in every town. The Swiss people want to live in their country, not in a new Austrian Switzerland. But what can they do? How can they fight the emperor, his governor and his soldiers? They want a hero, but where can they find one? Who can help Switzerland?

William Tell is not a soldier. He is a man of peace – a good man. Can he help his people? Is he going to fight for his country? Is he going to be Switzerland's first important hero? Or is he going to stay in the mountains, away from the fight, with his work and his family?

The German writer of this play, Friedrich von Schiller, lived from 1759 to 1805. At school, young Schiller started to write plays. He always wanted to write important stories about difficult problems in many countries. Later, he was a teacher and he was a good friend of the writer Johann Wolfgang von Goethe. Schiller never visited Switzerland. But Goethe went there and then talked to his friend about that country and its people. Schiller started to think about Switzerland and William Tell. Today, people know this Swiss hero from Schiller's play or from films of the story for television and cinema.

Scene 1 In Altdorf, Switzerland

[Fuerst, Stauffacher and Von Melchtal are in a street near Governor Gessler's office, near a tall, thin tree. There is a second tree across the street, and a fruit shop. Gessler is sitting in his office.]

FUERST: This is an important day. We're going to meet with Governor Gessler. We can't be late!

STAUFFACHER: Our Austrian emperor and his governors don't understand the Swiss people. We aren't Austrians. We're Swiss and we love our country.

FUERST: And we don't want to give our money to Austria.

VON MELCHTAL: Here's one of Gessler's soldiers. It's time. Let's go in and talk. Gessler must understand our problems.

[Fuerst, Stauffacher and Von Melchtal go into Governor Gessler's office. Gessler looks angry.]

GESSLER: What do you want now? You Swiss people come here every day with a new problem.

FUERST: Our problems aren't new. You never listen to us. Things are difficult in Switzerland these days.

GESSLER: Difficult? I don't understand.

FUERST: Your soldiers are always watching us. Every day you put a new tax on us. There are taxes on our food, our houses and our animals. How can we live with these taxes?

GESSLER [with a smile]: Perhaps you can't. But I can live very well with them. And the Emperor is happy

'We don't want to be Austrians. We're Swiss!'

with them too.

STAUFFACHER: But we're very unhappy.

VON MELCHTAL: We don't want to be Austrians. We're Swiss! Please listen to us.

GESSLER: Your Austrian emperor is very good to you – but you don't understand him.

FUERST: That's right! And he doesn't understand us!

GESSLER: This is our country now. Go home. Listen to me and to the Emperor, or things are going to get very dangerous for every Swiss man, woman and child. Go! I don't want to talk to you. My time is important and you are not.

[They go into the street again. People are waiting for them.]

MAN: What did the Governor say? Is he going to send his soldiers back to Austria?

WOMAN: Is he going to stop putting taxes on us? Did he understand our problems?

FUERST: No, he didn't listen to us.

WOMAN: What can we do? Can we stop this man?

FUERST: Perhaps we can. But first we must find a hero – a Swiss hero!

Scene 2 At a river in the Swiss mountains

[The sun is going down. Two friends, Werni and Ruodi, are standing near a river.]

WERNI: I'm going home now. Look! It's going to rain.

RUODI: I must get my boat from the river. It's getting cold and the water looks dangerous. Winter's coming.

WERNI: Good night, Ruodi!

RUODI: Wait! Look! Who's coming?

WERNI: I know that man. It's Konrad Baumgarten.

[Baumgarten arrives. He is running.]

BAUMGARTEN: Help me, my friends! Boatman, quick! Take me across the river now or I'm a dead man. Please!

RUODI: What's the problem? Who wants to kill you?

BAUMGARTEN: Gessler's men. They're coming. Quick!

RUODI: Why are they looking for you?

BAUMGARTEN: I killed one of the Governor's taxmen.

I was at work, away from home. The man came to my house. He asked my wife for water – and then he wanted her! My wife came to me for help. I went home quickly, and then I killed him with my knife.

WERNI: You did well. Ruodi, quick! Take him across the river in your boat.

RUODI: I can't. The river's moving very quickly and the rain is heavy. No boat can go across the river now.

WERNI: Ruodi, you must help this man. He has a family.

RUODI: I have a wife and three sons too. Look at the river – it's dangerous. I want to help, but I can't.

BAUMGARTEN: Then I'm dead.

WERNI: A man is coming! Oh, it's William Tell.

[William Tell arrives.]

TELL: Good evening, my friends. What's wrong here?

WERNI: Baumgarten killed one of the Governor's taxmen.

'A man is coming! Oh, it's William Tell.'

The soldiers are looking for him, but our boatman can't take him across the river.

RUODI: The river's dangerous. Look at it!

TELL: But Baumgarten can't wait here. What can we do?

RUODI: There's my boat and there's the river. You can take the boat and be the hero. I'm going to stay here.

TELL: Baumgarten, let's go – quickly! Werni, send my love to my family.

Scene 3 At Stauffacher's home

[Later that evening, Tell and Baumgarten are visiting Stauffacher.]

STAUFFACHER [to Baumgarten]: Your story isn't new. The Emperor's governors, his Austrian soldiers and his taxmen make new problems for us every day.

TELL: Gessler is playing games with our country. We don't want to kill people. We don't want to fight. We're men of peace. But what can we do?

BAUMGARTEN: Let's find a number of good, strong Swiss men. We must stop these Austrians.

STAUFFACHER: I'm going to visit Walter Fuerst tomorrow. He loves our country. He can help us.

BAUMGARTEN: We must fight for our country. Let's start now!

TELL: Yes, we must help our country, but can't we find peace? I'm going home. My family are waiting. But remember – you can always ask for my help.

Scene 4 In the mountains near Tell's home

[Gessler is on the mountain road to Altdorf with two soldiers. Tell is hunting near the road, but moves in front of Gessler.]

TELL: Hello! You're the famous Governor Gessler. Am I right?

GESSLER: You're right – and who are you?

TELL: My name's William Tell. I'm a hunter and I'm Swiss.

GESSLER: That's interesting. But I haven't got time for you. I'm an important man with important work in Altdorf. Move!

TELL: Wait! First, we must talk. Then you can go.

GESSLER: Why do I want to talk to you?

TELL: Because this is my country. You're making problems for us with your taxes and your soldiers. The people of this country are very unhappy.

GESSLER: Wait! William Tell? I know about you! You helped Baumgarten.

TELL: Yes, but Baumgarten is a good man. He killed your taxman because the man was dangerous.

GESSLER: Aren't you a dangerous man too? Don't you always have a crossbow with you? Don't you go into the mountains every day and kill?

TELL: I kill animals. I put food on my family's table. I don't kill people. Can your soldiers say that?

GESSLER: I haven't got time for your talk. Move! Now!

TELL: Why? It's not late. Please listen to me. You and your taxes are bad for Switzerland. We don't want you here.

GESSLER: But I am here and I'm going to stay. This is a new Switzerland and you must listen to us.

TELL: And you must understand the Swiss people. We love our country, our mountains and our families. We want peace – and we're going to fight for it. Watch us.

Scene 5 At William Tell's home

[Tell and Hedwig are sitting at their table and talking.]

HEDWIG: You're going to have problems with Gessler now.

TELL: Why? I talked to him. I didn't hit him.

HEDWIG: But he's going to remember you. He's going to make problems for us. Wait and see.

TELL: I'm a man of peace. I'm going to stay away from Governor Gessler now.

HEDWIG: Please do that. Where are Walther and Wilhelm?

TELL: They're in the garden. They're playing a game. Look at them. They're little soldiers.

HEDWIG: William, this isn't good. My sons aren't going to be soldiers. I want peace in my country and in my family.

TELL: I understand, Hedwig. Our sons are going to be hunters, but one day our country is going to want soldiers too. At that time, every man, woman and child must fight for Switzerland.

HEDWIG: William, can't you go to the Emperor? Can't you and your friends talk to him about peace?

TELL: Yes, we're going to try, but then ...

[Walther and Wilhelm run into the house.]

WALTHER: Father, are we going to Altdorf now?

TELL: Yes, my son. Have you got your crossbow?

HEDWIG: Why is he taking his crossbow?

TELL: I'm a hunter. I want to teach my son about the mountains and about hunting. He's a good student.

HEDWIG: But the mountains are dangerous for a young boy.

TELL: We're mountain people. This country isn't dangerous for us. I'm going to watch Walther, and teach him.

HEDWIG: And why are you going to Altdorf?

TELL: We're going to visit your father. I want to talk to him.

HEDWIG: My father and his friends want to start a fight. Please don't go, William! You're a man of peace.

TELL: I must go. I must help Switzerland too.

HEDWIG: But Gessler's in Altdorf today. He doesn't like you. Stay at home and go tomorrow.

TELL: No, I must go today. Let's go, Walther.

HEDWIG: Walther mustn't go. Please! He can stay with me.

WALTHER: I want to go with Father. I want to see the town and the people.

TELL: Hedwig, he's going to be OK with me.

[Tell and Walther go out. Hedwig and young Wilhelm stand at the door and watch them.]

GESSLER: What did she say?

MAN [quickly]: She's happy. That's all.

GESSLER [with a smile]: You can't see me every day because I have a lot of important work. But you can stop every day and look at my hat. You can send your love to the Emperor, and to me too.

MAN [quietly]: Our love? How can we love a hat? Or the Austrians?

WOMAN [to Gessler]: Must we stop for your old hat?

GESSLER: Yes! All of you must stop. My soldiers are going to be here every day. They're going to watch you.

Scene 7 In front of the tree with the hat

[Later the same day, Gessler's two soldiers are standing in the street near the tree.]

SOLDIER 1: People aren't going to walk here.

SOLDIER 2: They don't want to stop for a hat.

SOLDIER 1: Perhaps they don't love the Emperor and his governor.

SOLDIER 2: But it's only a hat! It's not on the Emperor's head. I don't want to make problems for people.

SOLDIER 1: But this is our job. Look! A man and a boy are coming. Let's watch them.

[William and Walther Tell come into the street. They are talking and they don't see the hat on the tree or the soldiers.]

WALTHER: Father, does every country have tall, beautiful mountains?

'Look! A man and a boy are coming. Let's watch them.'

TELL: No, son. Switzerland is famous for its mountains.
We Swiss understand them – and I'm going to teach you.

WALTHER: Look, Father! Why is there a hat on that tree?

TELL: I don't know, but it's not important. Let's go.

SOLDIER 1: Stop! In the name of the Emperor of Austria, stop and look up at the hat.

TELL: No. Why?

SOLDIER 1: No questions. Come with us.

TELL: What are you talking about?

SOLDIER 2: You're coming with us – to prison.

TELL: I don't understand. What's the problem here?

[Fuerst, Stauffacher and Von Melchtal arrive. People come into the street and watch.]

FUERST: Stop! This man is from my family. What's the problem?

SOLDIER 2: He didn't stop for the hat. He doesn't love the Emperor.

VON MELCHTAL [to the people in the street]: Friends, look at this! Do we want a hat on a tree in our streets? Is this an emperor? [to the soldiers] You can't take William Tell away. He's a man of peace.

MAN: Don't take Tell!

WOMAN [quickly]: The Governor is coming!

[Gessler arrives.]

GESSLER: Is there a problem here?

SOLDIER 1: Yes, Governor. This man and his son didn't stop for your hat. We're taking them to prison. [quietly]

But the people of the town are with him, not us.

TELL [to Gessler]: Is the hat important? I'm sorry, Governor.
But there's no problem. This afternoon, tomorrow and every day I'm going to stop and look up at your hat. I want peace in Altdorf and in all of Switzerland.

GESSLER: William Tell! You're a difficult man. And you have your crossbow with you again.

WALTHER: My father can hit an apple on a tree from a hundred feet with his crossbow.

GESSLER: Can he? Soldier, bring me an apple! *[Soldier
1 takes an apple from the fruit shop and gives it to the Governor.]* Good! Tell, take your son to that tree across the street and put this apple on his head. Then take your crossbow and walk away. Hit the apple and you and your son can live.

TELL: On my son's head? No father can do that! Kill me now.

GESSLER: No, do it! You and your crossbow are famous. Boy, stand near the tree and wait for your father's arrow.

FUERST: Governor, stop! Take my money and my house, but don't kill Tell and Walther.

WALTHER: I'm going to be OK. [He smiles.] Father can hit this apple. There's no problem.

STAUFFACHER: Tell, wait! Your hand is moving and your eyes are swimming in your head. Don't play this man's games!

TELL: Governor, kill me, not my son.

GESSLER: I want to watch you with your crossbow. Do it!

WALTHER: Father, you can do it. I'm going to be OK.

[Tell looks very unhappy. There is suddenly a lot of noise in the street. People come out of their houses because they want to watch. Tell quietly takes a second arrow from his bag and puts it in his shirt. Gessler sees him.]

MAN: Yes, you can do it, Tell!

WOMAN: You're a hero!

MAN [to the woman]: Tell's our man!

WOMAN [to the man]: We don't want that hat on the tree!

GESSLER: Tell, hit the apple and go home. Look! Your son is waiting.

WALTHER: You can do it, Father.

[People stop moving and are very quiet. Tell walks away. Then he puts an arrow in his crossbow and looks at the apple. The arrow hits the apple. The people in the street are very happy, but Tell cannot move.]

MAN: He did it!

WALTHER: Look, Father! I'm OK – I'm not dead.

WOMAN: Every Swiss man, woman and child is going to hear about William Tell.

MAN: He's our hero! Tell can hit an apple – [quietly] or a soldier.

FUERST: Walther, William, let's go to my house. Come with me.

GESSLER: Stop! I want to talk to Tell.

TELL: Yes, Governor?

GESSLER: Good job, Tell. But where's your second arrow?

TELL: In my shirt.

GESSLER: Why did you have a second arrow?

'Look, Father! I'm OK – I'm not dead.'

TELL: It was for you – a dead governor for a dead son.
But now the arrow can stay in my shirt and I can go home. Goodbye.

GESSLER: An arrow for me? Soldiers, take him to prison!
He's not going to walk away from me.

MAN: No! Wait! He's a good man.

WOMAN: He's a man of peace.

MAN: He's our hero!

FUERST: You're a very bad man, Governor Gessler.

GESSLER [to Tell]: I'm not going to kill you, Tell, but you're dangerous. I'm going to put you in prison in Kuessnacht. I don't want you and your crossbow on these streets. Soldiers, take him to my boat.

Scene 8 On the Governor's boat

[It is a dark night. Gessler's two soldiers are talking. Gessler's boatman is having problems with the boat.]

SOLDIER 1: Why is Tell important to the Governor?

SOLDIER 2: He's very good with the crossbow. And he's a hero to the Swiss people. The Governor doesn't like him, but the Swiss people love him now.

SOLDIER 1: Look at this rain. It's very dangerous on the water. Where's our hero now. We're never going to arrive at Kuessnacht.

[Governor Gessler comes to them.]

GESSLER: Where's my boatman?

BOATMAN: Here I am, Governor.

GESSLER: What's wrong? When are we going to arrive?

BOATMAN: The rain's very heavy, Governor, and the water's dangerous. I'm not a strong man. I'm having problems with the boat.

GESSLER: Soldiers! Help the boatman!

BOATMAN: What do they know about boats?

GESSLER: Get some help! Now!

SOLDIER 1 [slowly]: The prisoner Tell's good with boats.

GESSLER: Bring the prisoner to me.

[The soldiers go away, and then come back with Tell.]

GESSLER: Tell, help us with this boat!

TELL: How can I help you? Look at me. I'm a prisoner, not a boatman.

GESSLER: You're not a prisoner now, Tell. Boatman, here's your helper.

[Tell and the boatman work on the boat. After some time, the boat gets to Kuessnacht.]

GESSLER: Here we are! Soldiers! Take Tell to the prison.

TELL: What? Prison? No! I'm going to take my crossbow and say goodbye.

[Tell quickly takes his crossbow and runs away from the boat into the dark night.]

SOLDIER 1: Where did he go?

SOLDIER 2 [with a smile]: He helped us and now he's going to help his people. He is a hero.

'But I can see you!'

GESSLER: Stop him! In Altdorf, he wanted to kill me.

SOLDIER 1: But we can't see him.

TELL [from the road]: But I can see you!

[Tell takes the second arrow from his shirt and puts it in his crossbow. The arrow hits Governor Gessler in the head. Gessler falls. Tell runs away.]

SOLDIER 1: Oh, no! The Governor's dead!

SOLDIER 2: Where's Tell?

SOLDIER 1: He's in the mountains now. We can never find him. Let's take our dead governor to his house in Kuessnacht.

Scene 9 In a street in Altdorf

[William Tell arrives in the town. He meets Fuerst and Von Melchtal there, in the street.]

FUERST: William! You're back! How did you get away from Gessler and his soldiers?

TELL: I helped them with their boat on a very bad night. Then I killed the Governor.

VON MELCHTAL: Yes! Now things are going to be good again in our country.

FUERST: Gessler's dead, but we must finish Tell's work. We must send the Austrians back to their home.

VON MELCHTAL: Let's start our fight today. Tell, you're our hero. Can you help us again?

TELL: Of course I can. Every Swiss person is going to fight for their country. Many years from now, our children's children are going to talk about our fight.

[A man runs to them, with Gessler's hat in his hands. A woman walks into the street too.]

MAN [to the woman]: Here's Gessler's hat.

WOMAN: What can we do with that? Do we want it?

MAN: Put it in the river. Send it to Austria!

TELL: Wait! Let's put it in an important place. Let's look at it every day and remember Gessler. Let's say, 'Never again! Switzerland is for the Swiss.'

FUERST [to Tell]: But isn't the Emperor going to look for you? Isn't he going to come here with his soldiers?

TELL: Yes, Gessler was his friend and one of his governors. But we're strong and we can stop the soldiers. We can wait for them in the mountains.

MAN: We must listen to William Tell.

VON MELCHTAL: You're right. But wait! Who's coming? It's Stauffacher.

[Stauffacher runs to them.]

STAUFFACHER: Listen! The Emperor is dead!

FUERST: What? How?

VON MELCHTAL: When?

STAUFFACHER: Many Austrian people didn't like Gessler or the Emperor. The Emperor was on the road to Baden, here in Switzerland. Some Austrians stopped him and killed him. Then they went back to Austria.

FUERST: This is a good day for our country. Now we've got an important job. We must build a strong

'Let's say, "Never again! Switzerland is for the Swiss."'

Switzerland.

TELL: We can have peace now. Goodbye, my friends. I'm going home – to the mountains and to my family.

VON MELCHTAL: Thank you, William. Switzerland is always going to remember you.

ALL: You're our hero, William Tell!
